

Session 10

Session 10- After Alina gets done with the maps, she suggests we head to a brothel, which Elerra actually considers for us. We also bring up an idea for us to go to the island in the middle of the eternal fog, since we found a map of that island long ago. Elerra says she will bring it up to Daelen. We visit a tavern and meet Fin, an aspiring knight, We also taste something called wine, and are given a tour of a vineyard. Elera takes us back to our current lodging, while she prepares the visit to the brothel. When we visit the brothel, I finally lose my virginity to an ore woman, She almost broke me. It was divine, The next day, we visit with Daelen, who doesn't care about the island, but instead wants us to go on a mission to the Dracan Empire and learn what we can, and also bring back Evalina, We agree to the mission, though we might have plans of our own. The next day, we join Fin and three gryphons and start flying north and east, to get as close to the Dracan Empire as possible, On the first night, we see a man wailing about scales inside of him, though only in his mind, as Alina can speak to him that way. He ends up dying before I could examine him, revealing a scaled horror inside of him that we fight and beat.
