

Session 12

Session 12 After making plans to go to the Fog Island, Alina tries to spend some romantic time with Lacrevril, which doesn't really bring about anything. I end up getting a meeting with Lalumar, and try to get him to consider asking his Emperor to make peace with Thaisha, but Lalumar wants the war. After a few days, we start to prepare to fly down to the coast of the Forgotten Lands and head over to the island, Before we do, I grab the sending stone given to us by Thaisha from Alina, and send them a message that the Dracan Empire is set to attack. After flying for a few more days, we land on the coast and make plans for how to approach the fog. We make several runs, trying to think about heading to Mythrion instead of the island, flying high up into the sky if the island is a floating island, and having me dive into the water with the music mask on in case the island is underwater. After that attempt, I have a thought to try and replicate the whistle that the fog makes using the mask. manage to get it almost exact, but I hand the mask to Alina for her to do it, as she is more musically inclined. Alina manages to follow a series of whistles that the fog produces, revealing the island to us. We land, and find a strange, large building that covers 2/3rds of the island.
