

Session 14

Session 14- The next morning, we talk about how we would deal with the boat, as Velma confirms it is a Thaisan boat. We manage to get Lacreuil to not attack on first sight and instead let us talk to them. When the boat arrives, we find our knight friends, Quintrell, Berton, and Vallis. We tell them about the island and our mission to try and spy on the Dracan Empire. We also tell them about Lacreuil, and they agree not to attack as well. With everyone together, we try again to make sense of the scrolls, but we keep failing. We decide to head to the lands of the Elves, Mythrion, the next day. During Alina's watch at night, Lacreuil leaves, taking the dragonells with her. The next day, we all gather on the knight's boat and head south. During the travel, I fish up a giant lobster and we have to fight it and a second one. Once killed, I use some of the chitin to make a shield, adorning it with the black scales I gathered before. I also help make Gon some pauldrons. We make it to the shore of the lands of Mythrion, where we enjoy a nice lobster dinner before heading to bed. In the night, Blorg grows a beard and I actually start practicing my formulas. When we awake, we find ourselves surrounded by elves, bows drawn.

Revision #1

Created 2026-05-30 15:06:21 UTC by Zemti

Updated 2026-05-30 15:06:46 UTC by Zemti